Re: Public Records Request, Dated April 4, 2018

Dear Mr. Rosenow:

The City of Palm Springs (the "City") has reviewed your request for public records (the "Request"). The City has identified that there are responsive records and we will be providing you with all disclosable records, pursuant to the California Public Records Act (California Government Code §6250 et seq.).

As a preliminary matter, the City notes that your request is vague with respect to the phrase "eminent domain". An initial search of your criteria resulted in voluminous documents that may or may not be responsive. Accordingly, before the City can determine whether the documents are responsive to your request, the City will need clarification as to what you are seeking. To assist in this respect, please contact our office by May 21, 2018 with additional search terms and criteria to assist in narrowing the subject matter of your request. This will assist us in identifying responsive records and save us both the time and expense of reviewing items that are not related to your request. You may contact our office to assist you in refining the search terms and criteria. If we do not hear from you, we will assume that you are willing to absorb the costs of such a broad request.

Please be advised that prior to providing any records in response to your request, the City will need to review, redact, and/or segregate any information that is protected from disclosure by any of the exemptions under the Public Records Act. The City will make every effort to provide you responsive records at the soonest date possible; however, it is anticipated that the City will need an additional 60 days to review and produce the documents.

Please do not hesitate to contact our office with any questions you may have.

Very Truly Yours,

THE CITY OF PALM SPRINGS

PETER NELSON KING
Assistant City Attorney
